A report on World Mental Health Day

October 10, 2024

Date: 10/10/2024

Venue:Mini Auditorium

Organized by: Department of Psychology

The Department of Psychology organized a Mental Health Day to raise awareness about mental well-being, break the stigma surrounding mental health issues, and promote positive psychological practices. The event aimed to engage students, faculty, and the broader community in conversations about mental health, its impact, and the importance of seeking help when needed. The objectives of the program was to

- > To educate participants about common mental health conditions such as anxiety, depression, and stress.
- > To provide resources for managing mental health in daily life.
- > To create a supportive environment for individuals facing mental health challenge.

The event kicked off with an insightful workshop led by Dr. Jayan Namboodiri, CEO-Director, Mind Craft. a renowned psychologist, on "Coping Mechanisms for Stress and Anxiety." Participants learned practical tools to manage stress in both personal and academic settings.

A panel discussion titled "Mental Health at workplace" featured experts in psychology, and psychiatry the panel focused on the mental health challenges faced by students and young adults, especially in academic environments. The discussion also addressed the importance of breaking societal taboos around mental health.

The event witnessed high engagement, with more than 200 participants, including students, faculty, and community members. Feedback forms collected after the event indicated a positive reception, with participants appreciating the informative sessions and the opportunity to discuss mental health openly.

The event was a significant step toward creating a supportive and informed community that values mental health care. Moving forward, the Department of Psychology plans to make this an annual event, further expanding its reach and impact.
